John,

Thanks for reaching out. Google's plan is to build affordable and market rate housing in the area. They are not at the point where they presented the city with a detailed project. Nothing is guaranteed until a shovel breaks ground. That will be several years off. I can't give you any good advice on what to do with your home.

Good luck and let me know if you have any other questions.

Sincerely,

Chappie

Hi,

You've always been so informative. Is Google for sure coming into San Jose with a headquarters and retail as planned? I'm considering selling my home in Naglee Park but want to smart for the long run. Seems with the recent Merc article Google could just build low and middle income housing instead.

Thank you
John
