Google Downtown West Design Workshop #2

Following the submission of Google's Downtown West Mixed-Use development application to the City of San Jose in October 2019, we launched a series of workshops intended to gather community feedback on priorities for the Design Standards and Guidelines and activities in public spaces.

Our first workshop was held on December 7, and we are hosting our next workshop on Saturday, January 25. This workshop will focus on the physical character and experiences in public areas, parks and open spaces and surrounding streetscapes. If you attended our first workshop, we encourage you to come. We will be focusing on other areas within the plan.

We hope you will join us for one of the 90-minute sessions listed below. If you know others who would be interested in participating, we appreciate you forwarding this invitation to them.

Thank you!

Subject: Recommend Move DSAP/Downtown West Study Session from September 24 to November 16

Dear Mayor and Council,

For your calendar, I want to give you a heads up that we will be recommending to the Rules Committee next week that we move the City Council Study Session entitled Diridon Station Area Plan/Google Downtown West Mixed-Use Development from September 24, 2020 9:00 a.m.-1:00 p.m. to Monday, November 16, 2020 from 1:00 p.m. – 5:00 p.m.

The Study Session date is being changed because the release date for the Downtown West Draft Environmental Impact Report and Design Standards and Guidelines is moving from early September to later in the fall. Release of these documents in advance of the Study Session is important for staff to be able to provide Council with a comprehensive progress update.

We will be notifying the Station Area Advisory Group and other interested parties of this change later today and tomorrow.

The next virtual SAAG meeting will be September 16 at 6:00. Between now and the Nov 16 Study Session date, we are planning a series of public meetings and engagement activities.

Tomorrow, August 28, City staff is presenting a brief update on the Diridon Station Area Plan and the Downtown West project to the Diridon Joint Policy Advisory Board at their 3:00 virtual meeting, (see materials here).

Best regards,

Kim

Subject: Update on Development Plans Surrounding SAP Center

[External Email]

Dear Friends:

First and foremost, we want to send our best wishes to each of you, along with our hope that you, your families and friends are staying safe during these very challenging times.

Everyone at Sharks Sports & Entertainment (SSE) and SAP Center at San Jose continues to shelter in place as directed. The arena, along with all Sharks Ice facilities, remain closed during this time.

We look forward to seeing all of you again soon.

As requested, we are passing along the latest updates regarding the planned developments for the Diridon area of downtown San Jose, which surrounds SAP Center.

On April 14, the City of San Jose announced that several project updates would be delayed due to the coronavirus pandemic, including:

- The City Council's consideration of Google's Downtown West mixed-use plan has been postponed from the end of 2020 to early 2021.
- The release of the city's draft amendments to the Diridon Station Area Plan (DSAP) are now expected in fall 2020. Revisions to the DSAP will include Google's proposed project and the extension of BART to downtown San Jose.
- The draft Environmental Impact Report (EIR), along with the full development plan for Google's project (which was expected in April), will likely not be released until mid-summer.

As part of these announcements, the City of San Jose has launched a website, titled Planning for the Diridon Station Area. This website includes video presentations outlining potential modifications to the Diridon region in three key areas, including transportation.

This presentation has increased SSE's concerns in relation to the city's commitment to the future sustainability of SAP Center, including:

- Reduction of the street capacity surrounding SAP Center, including the potential closure of the northbound Highway 87 off-ramp at Santa Clara Street. This off-ramp provides direct access to a majority of the arena's parking locations and is critical to the building's continued success.
- A disproportionate emphasis on pedestrians, bicycles and mass transit in the downtown core. This will severely limit the ability of downtown employees, transit riders intending to reach Diridon Station and SAP Center guests trying to arrive and depart the area by automobile when most will have few, if any, other options for the foreseeable future.
- The continued absence of a comprehensive plan to address the substantial parking needed for the expansion of Diridon Station, the addition of BART, and SAP Center's guests. These shortfalls, coupled with Google's development proposal (which is anticipated to include a Transportation Demand Management plan that calls for a substantially reduced parking supply), will leave parking resources in the Diridon area severely impacted.

Be assured, we will continue to communicate our concerns to local leaders and project planners over the next several months.

As part of last week's announcement, the City of San Jose reaffirmed its commitment to engage with and listen to community members on the Diridon area projects. To solicit feedback from local businesses and constituents, a public survey has been created.

If you are interested in sharing your thoughts with city staff on the planned developments, you can access the survey here.

We understand that, as regular guests of SAP Center, you want to ensure that the facility remains the safe, convenient, world-class venue you have come to expect. Please know that we are working hard to protect your guest experience.

We appreciate your support and look forward to keeping you up to date as more information becomes available.

Small parks and no play for Diridon?

Hear all about proposals for Diridon Station Area Plan from Parks staff at our joint meeting with DANG--a coalition of four neighborhoods surrounding Diridon Station Area.

Monday June 8 at 7 pm via ZOOM

The draft Diridon Station Area Plan is moving towards completion and staff released a video and confusing survey last month. The survey questions focused on service preferences for a community center and nothing about parks. The presentation listed all the things planned for the big community center, but where will the City get money to pay to operate it? Or will it be only for those who can "pay to play?"

The map Google submitted shows some green space, but eliminates the 5-acre park and "green fingers" of the earlier Diridon Area Plan. The Los Gatos Creek trail route on the map is abandoned for an on-street alternative. The park in front of the train station is gone with the new Caltrain Station.

Who will own the green spaces? Who will be allowed to visit? Will it be private like eBay's soccer fields on North First? Or will open space be only for those who can afford to eat in the adjacent restaurants? What if Google abandons the project? Will the green spaces disappear under a new owner's high rise?

The Diridon Station Area plan covers all of the area around the station, not just Google's land. But it seems Google is driving the design. Will there be anywhere OUTSIDE in fresh air that people who live and work there can have active play?

Even if you don't live near Diridon Station, you'll want to give feedback on this trend. Higher density housing and office buildings are coming throughout the city. Will this serve as a template? No active outdoor space? No public parks?

Honored Guests who will answer these questions:

Jon Cicirelli, Director of PRNS

Nicolle Burnham, Deputy Director

Andrea Flores-Shelton, Interim Deputy Director, Recreation and Neighborhood Services

Subject: New Project: Daily Clips

Hey Camryn,

For each day you work, can you send news clips to the whole team? This will make sure everyone is well read on the current events and general "arena" that we are all playing in. It will also help to "de-silo" the office. Below is an example of what a clip might look like. And here is the process I'd like you to follow.

1. Research relevant news in San Jose, California, and the United States that might impact our Office -
  - a. Find 3 Stories relating to San Jose public policy news, political news, current events, etc.
  - b. Find 2 stories relating to California policy news, political news, current events, etc.
  - c. Find 1 United States policy news, political news, current events, etc.
  - d. Find 1 story that is generally interesting or something that went viral today or recently (maybe it's relating to technology or science or finance or tips on productivity or maybe it's an online debate about the true color of a piece of clothing). Brownie points if it's "memeable" or if you can insert the photo or topic or tweet or pro-tip creatively into the email somehow.
  - e. Below are some websites you might consider browsing through. Please note some of these do have paywalls, but others will not, and sometimes you can get around the paywall or at least view the first 50 words or so.
    - i. The Mercury News
    - ii. San Jose Inside
    - iii. San Jose Spotlight

- iv. Rough & Tumble
  - v. Around the Capitol
  - vi. The New York Times
  - vii. The Washington Post
  - viii. Vox Media
  - ix. The Verge
  - x. TechCrunch
2. Create the "news clips" in this format: NEWS SITE, Title (Author) First 100 words or so. It should look something like this:
- a. SAN JOSE SPOTLIGHT San Jose Diridon Station plan forges ahead as planners adapt to COVID-19 \(By Janice Bitters\): Developments across the region may be slowed due to the novel coronavirus, but some of the biggest land use plans in the South Bay are still inching forward, including San Jose's Diridon Station Area Plan and Google's Downtown West project. The two plans were originally set to get a final vote before the end of this year, but that decision has been pushed out to sometime in early 2021, after public, in-person meetings and feedback sessions ground to a halt in March.
3. Please send the clips to me before sending them to the full office. I'll approve and then let you distribute them. I'll also let everyone know about this daily project via slack (which I will add you to on Monday when you get your San Jose email address.
4. We'll aim to have the clips sent out to our colleagues by the end of each work day.

If you have any questions, just let me know. This summer I'd really like to get you involved in more comms and policy work, and this is just one step in that direction. Thanks, Camryn!

Dear Neighbors,

Please take a look at the update in this newsletter (below) on the new (novel) Coronavirus - COVID19. While we all must be cautious and practice best hygiene practices to avoid picking up Coronavirus or other viruses in our environment, we must be sensitive to those in our Chinese community. Our diverse community will not tolerate discrimination against Chinese immigrants and our Chinese-American neighbors, and I encourage everyone to be sensitive to what they may be feeling at this time. Take this opportunity to stand with our Chinese-American community and patronize their businesses, since I've heard that customer traffic at some of these establishments is down due to fears over the Coronavirus.

Like the flu virus, the Coronavirus does not discriminate, and anyone who has traveled to affected areas or come in contact with the infected must observe the quarantine rules and stay at home for the recommended 14-day monitoring period unless you are seeking medical attention.

Sincerely,
Johnny

Homelessness: If it's a crisis, lets act like it!

Despite my five-year effort to educate the public and lobby the County Board of Supervisors to implement Laura's law, with the support of my colleagues on the San José City Council, County leaders failed to move this law forward on January 28th.

Laura's Law is a temporary, court-supervised, involuntary conservatorship law that would help some of the most vulnerable mentally ill people on our streets. While it will help a small number of the overall population of unhoused people, that handful are the most severely mentally ill, have had several interactions with law enforcement, and have the biggest effect on our community's quality of life.

Laura's Law has been implemented in neighboring counties and is producing positive outcomes for both the homeless and for taxpayers, and Santa Clara County is missing an opportunity to help those who are unable to get help for themselves.

Despite this disappointment, it was satisfying to see that, after many years without significant, focused action, the County made some progress, such as approving the O'Connor and St. Louise hospitals as clinical service sites for homeless individuals that need medical treatment, and enhancement of mental health services at the Santa Clara Valley Medical Center. County-wide, voters approved Measure A, a $950 million affordable housing tax, to fund 120 new housing developments in Santa Clara County, including 4,800 units for extremely low-income individuals and families at risk of homelessness.

Concern remains, however, that the County is not looking at quicker, more easily implemented, and less costly ways to house the unhoused. One strategy that San José has utilized is to refurbish older buildings, like the Plaza hotel, into transitional housing. Refurbishing existing spaces is quicker and cheaper than planning, designing, and building new transitional housing. The County previously passed up $20 million in foundation funds to put with $50 million in taxpayer funds to help convert the old City Hall Annex building into 150 units of homeless housing and they're now looking to spend twice the money for nearly half the number of beds. I encourage them not to make that mistake again, when it comes to the existing jail structure. Instead of demolishing the building, they should seriously consider remodeling it into up to 674 beds for the unhoused. Building 674 beds of new transitional housing elsewhere would cost upwards of $404 million.

Additionally, the county ought to consider housing uses for the underutilized fairgrounds that have seen three revitalization efforts dating back to 1998 fizzle out (a fourth plan, released back in October, would see it become a “grand public space”, but I’m not holding my breath). The county is encouraged to consider buying existing buildings, even new ones, to address the housing crisis more quickly.

Our residents, and our unhoused, deserve a more urgent response to the crisis of homelessness. I call on the County to revisit Laura’s Law and to find ways to get people into transitional housing faster, and at a lower cost to taxpayers.

Transfer Tax Exemptions

Measure E - a new real property transfer tax applicable to certain property transactions in San Jose - is on the March 3rd ballot.

Information is available at the City Clerk's website on the arguments for and against this measure.

An item to discuss exemptions to the prospective Measure E tax was originally agendized for the February 11th City Council meeting in response to a memo from Mayor Liccardo requesting exemptions for non-profit housing developers. I submitted a memo suggesting that the exemption be extended to all home builders, since the only way to resolve the housing crisis is by increasing the supply of homes at all levels of affordability. At the February 11th meeting, the agenda item was deferred to allow City staff more time to conduct outreach. It is expected to be heard in early March.

Update on the new (novel) coronavirus

- The novel Coronavirus is now being referred to by scientists as "COVID19".
- Santa Clara County has two confirmed cases of COVID19
- There is no evidence that person-to-person transmission has occurred in Santa Clara County

The Santa Clara County Public Health Department is taking action to protect and keep the public informed about the new (novel) coronavirus. While the illness started in China, people with the virus have been confirmed in several countries including the United States and two cases in Santa Clara County. Health authorities are learning more about how this virus spreads. As this situation changes, the U.S. Centers for Disease Prevention and Control (CDC)

Opportunities to Give Back to Your Community - Help Wanted!

Dear Friends of Almaden Library,

The Friends of Almaden Library Spring Book Sale is scheduled for Saturday, April 4, 2020. There are volunteer opportunities for afternoon set-up on Friday, April 3rd and throughout the sale day on Saturday.

Please note: The Friends of Almaden Library are in major need of teen volunteer assistance and/or assistance from those who can lift and move heavy items for both set-up on Friday and clean-up on Saturday. Please talk to your families, friends, and neighbors and refer them to sign up for a volunteer shift if they are interested (sign up link is below). This will make for a much more smooth set up and clean up process.

Volunteer hours worked qualify toward the high school volunteer hour requirement and the Friends will sign for the hours worked.

Safe Parking and Temporary and Incidental Shelter Program

In 2019, over 6,000 people were counted as experiencing homelessness in San José on any given night and over 1,000 of them sleep in their vehicles. The City of San José developed a Safe Parking Ordinance that allows private property owners to designate their parking areas in places of assembly for safe parking.

The ordinance approved by City Council in February 2019 included amendments to the Municipal Code, specifically to Title 20 of the San José Municipal Code (Zoning Code). The property owner does not need to obtain a permit and may design operations from hours, type of vehicles, and target population.

If you are a property owner and interested in partnering with the City of San José on this important endeavor, please contact Lorena Diez with the City of San José's Homelessness Response Team at (408) 975-4456 or lorena.diez@sanjoseca.gov for more information.

City's new ADU Amnesty Program

Did you construct an accessory dwelling unit (ADU) or convert a garage, basement, or room into a separate living unit — also called an ADU — without obtaining a building permit? Or, did you buy a property with an unpermitted ADU? Insurance companies will NOT cover a fire, damages, or injuries relating to an unpermitted unit. Protect both occupants and yourself by legalizing your unit. The City's new ADU Amnesty Program waives penalties and may help you save more than $10,000 in fees while you take the steps to legalize your unit, improve the unit's safety for occupants, and reduce your liability. The program allows for using the building codes from the year the unit was built, and provides 5 years to complete items not relating to immediate health and safety issues. You can explore the program without disclosing your name and address by reviewing the Self-Assessment Checklist, and then calling the ADU Amnesty Coordinator with your questions.

Our City Forest Lawn Conversion Workshop series.

Our City Forest will be hosting a Lawn Conversion Workshop series! All are welcome to learn how to convert their lawn into a drought-tolerant landscape.

This workshop is a 3-part series that consists of the following:

February 22nd - Lawn Conversion Introduction Course

February 29th - Throwback tour to past Lawn Conversion Projects

March 7th - Hands-On Install

All from 9AM - 1PM at our office, 646 N King Rd, San Jose, CA 95133.

To sign up contact: lawnbuster@ourcityforest.org or call (408)-998-7337 x 107.

Although this workshop series is free, we do ask a suggested donation of $60-$100.

If you would like a sketch-up of what your lawn would look like as a drought-tolerant landscape with California native plants, it would be a $150 fee.

Voting is Now Easier than Ever in Santa Clara County!

Santa Clara County voters will join more than half the voters across the state when they cast a ballot in March using an exciting new voting model that makes it easier than ever to cast a ballot.

It's called the Voter's Choice Act, and it emphasizes convenience for the modern voter. Everyone will get a ballot that they can return postage-paid by mail, which is by far the most popular way to vote, or they can place it in one of 99 conveniently located and secure drop-boxes. Voters who prefer to vote in person can still do so at any of the more than 110 Vote Centers that will be open throughout Santa Clara County – some for up to 11 days. Remember, now it is Election Day every day between February 22nd and March 3rd!

People can vote near where they work, go to school or while running errands! The Vote Centers will offer a full spectrum of services, from language and accessibility assistance to ballots printed on demand for any voter, with all the contests that apply to any residential address in the County. There are electronic poll books to keep track of who has voted, and even voter registration all the way up through Election Day.

Take advantage of the extra time and convenience afforded by the new Voter's Choice Act, which starts with the March 3, 2020, Presidential Primary Election. It's a positive change that offers voters a choice: Choose when, where and how to vote.

Visit sccvote.org/voterschoice or call 866-430-VOTE (8683) for more information.

Hi Councilmember Foley,

Following the submission of Google's Downtown West mixed-use development application to the City of San José in October 2019, we launched a series of workshops to gather community feedback on priorities for design standards and guidelines that will shape the look, feel and experiences in Downtown West.

Our next workshop will focus on building context and streetscapes. We will also share a summary of feedback from our previous workshops on parks and open space and how community input is informing the Downtown West Design Standards and Guidelines.

We are offering workshops on two dates. The format and content are the same, so we hope one will work with your schedule!

[External Email]

Google Downtown West Design Workshop #2

Following the submission of Google's Downtown West Mixed-Use development application to the City of San Jose in October 2019, we launched a series of workshops intended to gather community feedback on priorities for the Design Standards and Guidelines and activities in public spaces.

Our first workshop was held on December 7, and we are hosting our next workshop on Saturday, January 25. This workshop will focus on the physical character and experiences in public areas, parks and open spaces and surrounding streetscapes. If you attended our first workshop, we encourage you to come. We will be focusing on other areas within the plan.

We hope you will join us for one of the 90-minute sessions listed below. If you know others who would be interested in participating, we appreciate you forwarding this invitation to them.

Thank you!

WHEN

Saturday, January 25

WHERE

20 S. Autumn Street
San Jose, CA 95113

TIME

Session 1: 1:00 pm - 2:30 pm

Session 2: 3:00 pm - 4:30 pm

FREE PARKING

8 S. Montgomery Street (directly across from 20 S. Autumn)

Ample street parking is also available.

Each session covers the same content and can accommodate 45 participants. Space is limited, so please sign up as soon as possible for a time that works best for your schedule. Additional workshops will be planned on alternate date(s) should interest exceed the capacity.

Please complete the R.S.V.P. form by January 24.

Light refreshments and snacks will be provided.

If you have any questions, please contact us at sanjoseplan@google.com.
