Hi Elisabeth and Lori,

I hope everything is going well. The Merc is in the process of working on a timeline story laying out for readers how the Google project, BART extension, Diridon Station redesign, etc. all overlap. Hoping one/both of you can answer a few questions.

1. Is the attached timeline still accurate? Our graphics department is planning to work off of this timeline and I want to make sure all the dates, etc. are correct.
2. Does one of you have time today for a short phone call to walk through what some of the terms mean i.e. "pre-construction"? We'd like to try to simplify or explain some of the language for readers.
3. Do we know when the next round of SAAG meetings will be? I know there's a Spanish-language one tonight, but I recall Google saying in May that they would come back, I think in July, with more specifics in terms of where various components (office, retail etc.) might go.

Thank you.

Best,

Emily
