Rey,

Sorry for the slow response. More than happy to assist with any guidelines or specs for the google campus area, just need to know what I can help with. When it comes to Silva cells in particular, I would be very supportive of their use as I see them resolving many conflicts that current designs have difficulty addressing.

Let me know if you have any specific questions or wish to discuss details.

Good Morning Russell,

I hope you are doing well. I recently left you a voice message. I wanted to coordinate some information with regarding the new Google Development downtown (Downtown West). The design guideline is currently being put together and we wanted to get your recommendations for type of trees to be planted in the development.

A more particular part is the silva cell design that they are proposing to construct for stormwater purposes. We'd appreciate to get your input and coordinate with you a list of recommendations to set as guidelines for the project. If you have time, I'd like to discuss with you. My contact number is below.

Thank you,
