Dear Sir(s),

I am a resident, along with my family, of St. Leo's neighborhood, on the West side of Diridon Station. We would like to express our strong support for Google's Downtown West mixed-use project. This is the right thing for our neighborhood, and will bring enormous benefits to San Jose. It's an opportunity not afforded to many cities.

I would also like to emphasize our particular objections to the insistence on more parking made by the SSE (Sharks Sports and Entertainment). Surface parking lots are deserts of inopportunity. Removing them will take San Jose closer to the mode shift goals. Put the needs of the whole community first! Oracle Park in San Francisco draws sell-out crowds with only a fraction of the parking. The combination of VTA, bus, Caltrain, and BART, all converging on the SAP center, will provide ample opportunity for fans to get to the game.

We love walking and biking in our neighborhood, and look forward to doing the same in the new mixed-use area around Diridon. Our city's future is bright!

// Gregory
